'I WILL NEVER BUY SHOES ANYWHERE ELSE AGAIN'

Recruitment manager Andrea Mahn had so much foot pain she could barely walk.

This fit and active 40-year-old had been suffering from Plantar Fasciitis - a painful inflammation of the tissue on the sole of the foot.

"I was treated by an osteopath, a physiotherapist and a sports therapist but nothing really eased the pain," explained Andrea.

As her job involves a lot of standing and walking, life was becoming unbearable. She was also unable to partake in her favourite hobby, running.

Then Andrea saw an advert for Foot Solutions and decided to pay them a visit. "I turned up hoping that someone would be able to help me," she said. "and it was the best decision I have ever made."

"The staff were knowledgeable, helpful and attentive and after half an hour of tests and examinations they found a solution. It was the most fantastic service I could have imagined."

Foot Solutions provided Andrea with custom shoe inserts and a special device to help stretch her feet at night.

"The device gave me immediate relief from the pain, allowing me to sleep better and when the inserts were fitted in my shoes they made a huge difference."

"I had faced the prospect of never being able to wear high heels but I can now wear them for up to 14 hours if necessary."

"I don't suffer at all anymore. I can do my job and go running without constant pain. I will never buy shoes anywhere else again."

Drug-related death: Nicole Robertson

'YOU'VE RUINED MY LIFE'

Police volunteer caught smoking cannabis with drug dealers died of overdose, coroner rules

CHIEF REPORTER
ROSS LOGAN

ross.logan@
london.newsquest.co.uk

A young police volunteer died from a lethal dose of painkillers shortly after officers caught her drinking and smoking cannabis with known drug dealers.

Kingston University student Nicole Robertson, 19, was found dead on April 18, 2013, the night after a gathering in her room was broken up by police in the early hours.

At an inquest on Tuesday, West London Coroner's Court heard how police officers told the second-year criminology student her current lifestyle "was not compatible" with a future career in the force, and that because she was a volunteer at Kingston police station, the incident would need to be reported.

Her body was found in bed

the following evening.

An unsent text message, which coroner Chinyere Inyama described as a possible suicide note, was also found on her phone.

Robert Merrett, acting inspector for Kingston police, said officers only called by the house as they were investigating reports of a series of thefts from cars in the area.

But they found Ms Robertson drinking and smoking cannabis in her room with three men – two of whom were known drug dealers.

Insp Merrett said: "We spoke to her about whether there were any breaches of police security.

"She was advised that we would have to report the situation and told this sort of lifestyle is not compatible with her role."

Insp Merrett said police did not feel there was any cause for concern regarding her welfare when they left the property, at about 4am.

But housemate Olivia Salt said

Ms Robertson's mood changed after the police intervention, from "drunk and giggly" to "muted".

Both she and fellow housemate Hannah Lowthian heard Ms Robertson shouting, followed by retching and vomiting noises.

Ms Salt said "Nicole was shouting 'You've ruined my life'. I thought she was on the phone to someone."

Ms Robertson did not answer her door despite Ms Salt knocking repeatedly.

Ms Lowthian called police that evening, after Ms Robertson failed to respond to calls, texts and door-knocks from worried friends.

She was found lying on her bed and pronounced dead at the scene.

Toxicology tests found lethal levels of paracetamol and propranolol in Ms Robertson's body.

Mother Fiona Robertson said she was prescribed propranolol for migraines.

She said: "She was studying criminology at university and she was very serious about it.

"She was very much looking forward to joining the police and she was very proud of joining the police as a volunteer.

"I think [being warned by police] was the most devastating for her."

Recording a drug-related death, coroner Chinyere Inyama said although he was satisfied Ms Robertson took a deliberate overdose, he could not be sure she intended to kill herself.

He said: "There was a text message which was never sent which could amount to what is commonly known as a suicide note.

"But there are cases where people kill themselves and do not leave a note and others where people leave a note but do not kill themselves.

"The word tragedy is often used but this is a case where it certainly applies."

Mayor's message of support to those affected by ferry disaster 'Thoughts and sympathy' for Korean ferry families

REPORTER

nazia.dewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

The mayor of Kingston has sent out a message of support to South Koreans across the borough after the ferry disaster left many thinking of home.

The ship Sewol, which was sailing from Incheon in the north-west to the southern island of Jeju, capsized carrying 476 people last week.

Rescuers tried to find survivors in the ferry disaster but fears are that those still missing have died.

The confirmed death toll was 108, with more than 190

Message: Penny Shelton

passengers still missing, as this paper went to press.

Kingston mayor Councillor Penny Shelton read a speech in a minute-long Youtube video released last Thursday.

She said: "I know there are many residents in New Malden and other parts of the borough will have connections to family or friends in South Korea who have directly or indirectly been affected by this tragedy.

"Our thoughts, sympathy and support are with you all in these sad times."

Christopher Kwon, chairman of the Kingston Korean Residents' Association, said: "All our residents are very sad by this. We feel awful even if we are not actually involved."

"We are watching the news to see what's going on and we are refraining from doing anything cheerful."

The ferry is believed to have sunk within two hours of getting into trouble and crew members have since been arrested and criticised for not evacuating passengers safely, with South Korean President Park Geun-hye calling the act "akin to murder".

Liberal Democrat Kingston and Surbiton MP Edward Davey tweeted: "Thinking about and praying for the Korean families who have lost loved ones in the ferry disaster or who are waiting anxiously to hear."

Conservative leader Councillor Howard Jones wrote on Facebook: "Our prayers at this sad time for our Korean community and the families of those involved in the tragedy unfolding."

'Excellent'

A Surbiton day nursery has been given an outstanding rating by Ofsted.

A report released following an inspection at Sutherland Day Nursery in Ewell Road found the nursery had improved on its good rating of five years ago.

Inspectors visited the school last month and wrote in the report: "The quality of teaching is excellent."

"The provider and staff skilfully promote children's understanding and skills, inspiring them to explore, be imaginative and with confidence and joy to take on new challenges."

The nursery, run by husband and wife Andrew and Grazyna Sutherland, opened in 2008 and now has 49 children aged up to five.

Mrs Sutherland said: "I am also extremely proud of my staff and everyone involved in making our nursery such a caring and happy environment for all."

Enhancing the nursery's outdoor area to allow more varied activities was the only improvement suggested in the report.

Banner sees 'no road' campaign step up a gear

Latchmere Lane residents have placed a banner reading No Road Through Here on the perimeter fence of Latchmere House, writes Ben Naylor.

The protest is in response to Berkeley Homes' plans to build a road for new houses on the site, and a petition has already been signed by 150 people.

Latchmere Lane resident Andree Frieze said: "The end of Latchmere Lane nearest the house has cars parked either side making it a single lane road that still needs traffic-calming measures because it is used as a rat run."

Richmond Liberal Democrat Councillor Sir David Williams said: "We have always been sceptical about Berkeley Homes' reasons for proposing a second entrance from Latchmere Lane. It doesn't make much sense in planning terms, particularly as the two main entrances to the Royal Park Gate site (ex-British Aerospace) on Richmond Road both serve well over 100 houses each and this will only be 89 homes."

Latchmere House, on the border of Kingston and Richmond, was once a hospital.

Ale drinkers keep it real at festival

Generous beer and cider drinkers helped raise hundreds for the Breast Cancer Campaign at the fifth annual Hook Beer Festival.

The charity received about £600 in donations, which will be topped up by a further donation from the 1st Hook Scout group, festival organiser Neil McLean said.

Nearly 700 people visited the festival, which featured 41 ales and 12 ciders.

Mr McLean said: "The number of people who say, 'See you next year', or 'Make sure you run one next year', is great."

"It's a great feeling. We do listen to their comments and we take it all on board."

Shed containing gas cylinder engulfed in flames

Four fire crews, totalling 21 firefighters and officers, were called to a shed fire involving a gas cylinder.

A shed in Leatherhead Road, Chessington, had been entirely engulfed in flames, with another partly affected, London Fire Brigade said.

Fascia boards of a neighbouring house were also damaged.

Firefighters from Kingston, Surbiton and Fulham were called at about 3.45pm on Sunday to the shed, near Merritt Gardens.

Leatherhead Road was blocked northbound, Transport for London said.

The fire was under control at about 4.30pm.

Paramedics were called but did not treat anyone.

Couple with baby broke into empty flat to squat 'Desperate' family resort to squatting

REPORTER

NAZIA DEWJI & DAVID GAZET

ndewji@
london.newsquest.co.uk

A family with a six-month-old baby say they resorted to squatting in an empty one-bedroom Tolworth council flat out of desperation after spotting it was empty.

Unemployed builder Marlon Pede, 43, said he climbed in through an unfastened window in the ground-floor flat in Chaffinch Road earlier this month before changing the locks and moving his girlfriend Clare MacDonald, 21, and son Dre in.

The couple slept on a mattress on a bare concrete floor, while Dre was asleep in a car seat.

They were escorted out on Wednesday, April 16, by five police officers and two council workers, shortly after the delivery of two second-hand sofas from the Fircroft Trust charity shop.

Mr Pede said before he was evicted: "We thought we were trying for squatters' rights. We have tried every avenue to do it properly. Normally I wouldn't do that, but because of the nature of the situation I would climb through a fire if it put a roof over my son's head."

He claimed the flat had been empty for five or six months and he had noticed it because a friend lived in the block.

The couple moved to England from Guernsey in August 2013, but have been unable to find work and are currently claiming jobseeker's allowance.

They had also tried to get a flat with Hillingdon Council.

Mr Pede's other daughter Jade is living with his mother, he said.

Miss MacDonald, an ex-beauty student, said: "We are both trying to find work. This was the only way to get their attention."

The family said they had slept in a car on the Wednesday night after being evicted from the Tolworth flat.

Councillor Gaj Wallooppillai, opposition lead for better homes, said: "I don't condone squatting, but the council has a responsibility to address homelessness."

"This is the most shocking case I have heard of. It is compounded by the fact that they have a small child but it is terrible regardless."

But Councillor Patricia Bamford, lead member for better homes, said: "If you had earmarked a property to move into and someone moved themselves in there you wouldn't like it would you?"

"I do feel sympathy; housing is a serious issue."

A spokesman for the Kingston Federation of Residents said: "The lack of adequate social housing is rapidly becoming the number one problem not just in this borough but right across Greater London and the south-east."

Kingston Council has brought more than 800 empty homes back into use since 2010 by negotiating with owners and giving them grants to do up properties.

But there are still about 7,000 people left on the council house waiting list, Coun Bamford said.

The family has now been housed by Hillingdon Council.

Parking chief's contract not renewed

The man who oversaw a bumper year for parking fines in the borough has been let go as part of a cost-cutting scheme.

Kingston Council's interim parking manager John McArdle's 12-month contract was not renewed at the beginning of this month, and his job will not be filled, a council spokesman said.

Kingston's £4,856,982 fines revenue in 2013 put it fourth out of 187 councils from across the UK which supplied figures, behind Haringey, Barnet and Westminster.

It also took more than £800,000 between September and March after taking over the enforcement of moving violations fines from police, including for stopping in box junctions.

The council spokesman said: "We thank [Mr McArdle] for his contribution and wish him well for the future."

Council leader Councillor Liz Green said: "It's not about raising money. It's about enforcing traffic regulations, which are there for a reason. I don't see an irony."

Mr McArdle said: "I'd say that the impact of the current financial climate is wide ranging, but it would be improper of me to comment on how it might affect the council."

"In terms of my own activity I was particularly pleased with successfully taking over the enforcement of moving traffic contraventions from the police and improving links between the service and the business community."

But David Mark, of Berrylands, who was hit with a box junction fine last year, said: "Cost can't be a legitimate reason since they're already collecting such huge sums from the public."

"They need to be managing the whole process in a thorough and competent way. It needs to be staffed by senior managers. Otherwise, what hope is there for the people who use Kingston's roads?"

As honorary treasurer of the British Parking Association, Mr McArdle told members in a budget speech last year that belts were being tightened in the "age of austerity".

A keen tweeter, he only occasionally talks shop online, though he praised improvements in car park management, and noted a particularly egregious instance of bad parking in which an ice cream van had ignored double red lines and no-parking cones.

Councillors decided in February that management of Kingston Council-owned car parks, such as the Rose and the Cattle Market, will be handed to a private contractor, and responsibility for enforcing street parking bays would be negotiated jointly with Sutton Council.

Between 2008 and 2013 the council issued more than 200,000 parking fines worth more than £8.7m.

By law, profit from the fines must go to fund off-street parking, road maintenance, public transport, or projects approved by the Mayor of London.

NOT ALWAYS ACCIDENT EMERGENCY (A&E)

Winter is a busy time of year for the NHS. Accidents and emergency departments across the country are usually at their busiest with increased demands from patients with a wide range of conditions. Most hospitals prepare for this increased demand on their A&E services well ahead of the winter months but the sheer number of visits from more people going to A&E for treatment is still very challenging. For some people, A&E is an alternative when their GP practice is closed or they have difficulty making a suitable appointment at their GP practice.

This winter, the accident and emergency in Kingston Hospital received nearly 7000 visits in the three months leading to November 2013 at the cost of over £460k. For people requiring immediate emergency treatment or in a life threatening situation, A&E is the best place for them. However, for almost 15% of people visiting Kingston Hospital's A&E department (who did not require treatment at A&E or follow up), an alternative local health service might have been more convenient and appropriate for them.

Local people are encouraged to call NHS 111 for urgent, medical advice and also help in choosing the service that is right for them. Kingston CCG is working with a range of partners on initiatives both within and outside hospital to ease the pressures on A&E, to help Kingston Hospital maintain its 'four hour waiting time' target and to increase awareness of local health service alternatives to A&E.

The 'Not always A&E' campaign is part of this drive to ensure that local people can access treatments more conveniently and where possible, closer to home in their local community.

EASING WINTER PRESSURES

Kingston GP Dr Naz Jivani explains there are more convenient alternatives to A&E when faced with an ailment that is not life threatening.

Naz Jivani, local GP and chair of Kingston Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG)

Welcome to April's healthy living supplement.

Knowing where to go when you need medical advice fast is the first step to getting the best treatment quickly. For example, if you urgently need medical help or advice but it's not a life-threatening situation, the NHS 111 service is available 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Calls are free from landlines and mobile phones. Alternatively, a minor injuries unit or NHS Walk in Centre can treat a range of conditions including – infections, bruises, stomach upsets and some fractures.

NHS Kingston CCG has joined forces with NHS Richmond CCG to raise awareness of the alternatives to A&E by providing local people with information about where to go if they need medical help fast. Using A&E only in life threatening situations helps to free up much needed NHS resources for everyone.

Look out for our eye-catching posters, banners, leaflets and at your GP practice and public areas. The campaign is supported by a website www.notalwaysAandE.co.uk where visitors can find the nearest health service for the treatment they need. You can also request a leaflet with information about local health services in Kingston and Richmond from communications@kingstonccg.nhs.uk.

Remember A&E (accident and emergency) is for saving lives. Call NHS 111 when you need medical help fast or, visit: www.notalwaysAandE.co.uk to find the right service for you.

The Last Supper was an all-male affair but, 2,000 years later, things are changing.

Groups of friends – businesswomen and other professionals – have appropriated the format, with a dozen or more regularly coming together to network and raise money for charity.

The First Supper Club held its first party in February.

Originator Barbara Mack, a video producer from Kingston, said: "Most of my female friends have a busy time juggling family life with interesting careers, so finding time to meet friends is always a challenge, which is why we came up with this community supper party idea."

The desire to donate to charity came from a visit to Bosnia and Herzegovina, during which Mrs Mack and husband Chris made a promotional film for orphanage charity St Joseph and the Helpers.

Mrs Mack said: "At the end of the day, they're not really giving money to the charity, they're just paying for their supper."

"It's a lot of fun and does a lot of good. I've got three cooks and now we've committed to three supper parties."

"We're all separate groups of friends – the idea is that we help each other."

The parties take a cue from TV series Come Dine With Me – minus the manufactured stress and conflict.

One guest a night is asked to give a presentation on a business or service they run, as an opportunity to network and fill out their contacts book.

Gardener Olivia Coley, from Kingston, is to host the next supper club event, bringing an impressive history of charity event organising to the table, including work for Macmillan.

She said: "I just do it all the time. It's a small event, this, by comparison."

"I'm going to do Thai food. The money raised from that goes to a homeless charity in Richmond, the Vineyard Community Centre."

Pat Henry, UK chairman of St Joseph and the Helpers, said: "It's absolutely wonderful to have somebody coming up with a fundraising idea."

"It just sounds such a different thing to do."

"It's not your normal coffee morning. Hopefully it will benefit many charities."

FOOD FESTIVAL: Getting ready to celebrate the best of town's grub

What's on the food table?

JON SHARMAN

jon.sharman@
london.newsquest.co.uk

Last year's inaugural Surbiton Food Festival saw the crowning of a champion sausage, a beer tent drunk dry and businesses come together to promote the town.

This year's two-week celebration of Surbiton's culinary offerings has expanded to cater for more than 100 businesses.

The fortnight of food will begin on Saturday, May 3, with the official opening of an apple orchard at Knollmead Primary School, in Tolworth, where families can bring a picnic.

The next day the somewhat fishy Seething Freshwater Sardine Festival will take place – the Thames at Surbiton being renowned for its catches of the fish.

The showcase village fete event will return on May 10 and May 11, with stalls, games and music filling St Andrew's Square.

Festivities culminate on Saturday, May 17, with an athletic sports day spectacle at the Victoria recreation ground, including favourites like the egg-and-spoon and three-legged races.

Food, drink and face-painting: Fun from last year's festival

Chef Michel Rissons from the French Tarte judged last year's baking competition and is taking part in this year's Faces Behind the Food profile series.

He will also judge the large cakes competition this year. He said: "I love Surbiton, it's a beautiful area and the community is lovely."

"It was very popular last year and hopefully the weather will be the same and there will be a lot of people."

"I was really impressed – the streets were full."

The co-organiser, Robin Hutchinson, said: "Everybody who took part last year has come back, which is brilliant."

"We are really pleased with the way things are shaping up. There is loads going on and what's clear is Surbiton wants it, and that is the nicest bit."

The festival will also see the first trial of a borough-only currency, the Kingston Pound. Nearly 100 people have deposited money at credit union SurreySave in order to take part.

Project leader Andrew Connolly said: "Without much effort we have had quite a lot of interest."

"I think it is going to be a good one."

On parking enforcement

So we can take then that no tickets have been issued in none primary roads. Except when there are schools involved. That's nice to know, but let's see the evidence of that by publishing locations of areas where parking tickets have been issued in the past year.

SURBITON STATION: Proposal a 'knee jerk' reaction to Mayor of London Plans for pedestrian zone are an absolute nonsense

Pedestrianisation of the Surbiton station forecourt – what absolute nonsense.

Surbiton station is used by an increasing number of people nearly every day.

These include the daily commuters in their thousands, who arrive by bus or private car, walk and, yes, there are relatively few cyclists, for whom parking facilities can be provided at relatively low cost and minimal inconvenience.

What is being planned for the aged and infirm who already represent a significant sector of Surbiton's population and our travelling public?

Are they to be despatched to the rear entrance where they can access the station without walking across a sloping pedestrianised plaza – yes, of course, but there are no lifts on that side of the station.

Encouraging cycling or even walking is commendable, but it has to be put into perspective.

Creating a pedestrian zone will have no effect whatsoever. What will be done about all the approach roads to the station? The so-called service road behind the shops in Victoria Road will surely be totally unable to manage the stream of taxis and private cars dropping off and collecting people.

The car park is a shambles.

Ticket machines are often not functioning properly. The spaces are too narrow for today's cars, that continue to be parked without due care and attention.

I repeat, what absolute nonsense – plus an extraordinary waste of taxpayers' funds – all in a knee-jerk reaction to one of Boris Johnson's less-inspired dreams.

Pret seating trial causing confusion

I am totally confused by our local council's decision makers.

The highways department is requesting a four-week trial of seating outside Pret a Manger in Clarence Street, that will begin shortly.

Pret had apparently already withdrawn its request for a licence with its original planning application.

So now there is to be a trial, to monitor the effect on pedestrians, and a public consultation has been opened until Wednesday, April 30.

Why am I confused? There are several reasons.

It has not been requested by Pret, in public.

This is a cycle route too – but is the company considering that?

The area suggested is the only space Kingston First has given the company to store its waste in bin bags on the street as it is.

It stacks up during the day and gets collected at about 3am.

Why are council officers requesting this if they have not been asked to by Pret?

Have they got an outdoor seating target unfulfilled?

Why are they trying to narrow Castle Street with more seating, waste for collection and cyclists among the pedestrians?

This area is a major pedestrian commuter route to the station.

While not against all outdoor seating, and I love a Pret coffee myself, I am confused at this trial.

Should RBK be spending our council tax on these uncalled for schemes?

TESSA KIND
 Labour candidate for Grove Ward

Stop complaining – lend a hand

I have been watching the comments on your report about Mr Smithers and his overgrown tree in Potters Grove, New Malden (Chop down tree or face eviction, April 17).

I have made a few comments myself on this story and I find it disgusting that his neighbours have the absolute disgusting manners of complaining about the overgrown tree.

Yes, it is his responsibility to trim it back as it is within his home's boundary, but, saying that, this man is a pensioner of 73.

Surely, those neighbours could spare a couple of hours on a weekend to go round and do the neighbourly thing and offer to trim it back for him instead of doing whatever they do at the weekend.

I would offer to go round and trim it back for him, but I have had a stroke and would find it difficult.

Some people have nothing better to do than complain about everything these days – where has the neighbourly spirit gone? Is everything too much trouble? Is it a chore to look after our pensioners?

RICHARD LONGHURST
 Via email

Water wasted through leaks

I would like to highlight the appalling waste of water caused by two leaks, one near Bridge Road roundabout and the other at Hook Parade.

The leaks have been going for nearly two weeks now and there does not seem to be any sign of them being fixed.

We will, of course, continue to pay for the wasted water through increasing bills.

LOY DSOUZA
 Via email

Cycle path strays too close to river

As a cyclist, I share Heather Forrester's concerns (Riverside should not be vandalised by cycle lane, April 17) about the proposed riverside cycle track.

Although there is a desperate need for a north-south route, that does not go through the bus-infested Eden Street, or through the Market Place, the new proposal seems to make the same mistakes as the long-standing farce in Canbury Gardens.

Here, there are two parallel paths – one narrow, and one by the water's edge, favoured by anglers and children, with a blind bend at one end, where an accident could easily pitch a cyclist into the water – and a second path set back from the water.

This one has a better surface for rubber tyres, and is wide enough for cyclists and pedestrians to share. Guess which one is designated as the cycle path?

Yes, we badly need a cycle path along the river south of Kingston Bridge, as well as a more sensible arrangement north of it. Both should be set back from the bank.

Meet the HEAD

Meet the HEAD OF SOUTHBOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL

NIALL SMITH

“ I love being the headteacher of this school. Not only does the progress we have made over recent years fill me with enormous pride, but I also know that this is a school where staff and students work exceptionally well together. We are a school that is going places!

SOUTHBOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL

Here's how: Firstly, our exam results: last year, 60% of our students achieved 5A*-C grades, (including English and Maths); while 38% of students achieved the English Baccalaureate, well above the national and local average. At A Level, 51% of our grades were A*, A or B: a great platform for university applications. Secondly, our Ofsted report: in December 2013, Southborough High School was rated as "Good", with a particular highlight being: "Students show a pride in their school through their smart appearance and the way that they behave moving to and from their lessons. They are respectful and courteous towards visitors: for example, opening doors for adults during change of lessons or at breaks and lunchtimes." We believe that an "Outstanding" rating is within our grasp and are working hard to improve even further.

Thirdly, our extracurricular offer: we believe in educating the whole person, which is why we strive to create the very best extracurricular opportunities for our students.

Finally, the future: we believe that in order to thrive, we need to keep innovating and moving forward. Come and join us!

Meet the HEAD OF RAYNES PARK HIGH SCHOOL

RAYNES PARK HIGH SCHOOL

I am proud and privileged to be the Headteacher of and having worked and led two Ofsted rated 'Outstanding' schools prior to my appointment here, I have a clear vision, drive and passion to ensure students and future students of Raynes Park High School achieve above and beyond their potential.

I am passionate that every student at our school reaches and exceeds their potential. I have the highest expectations of both students and staff, so that students can choose to move on within whatever their chosen career-path is in the future. I have introduced a number of key innovations over the last two years in my drive to deliver the highest standards within school life.

The curriculum has been broadened to enable students to personalise their learning choices and choose their subjects from the end of Year 8. This has given students the freedom to study subjects they enjoy and are passionate about developing their learning within. Extracurricular activities continue to develop and I champion and encourage a wide range of sporting, drama and other activities to support students in their wider personal development.

Our pastoral support system provides a unique level of support to students with the Head of House to student ratio superior to any other mainstream school. The Head of House monitors their academic progress and personal well-being. This means each student is known personally with their individual strengths celebrated and recognised, and areas for development are championed.

The behaviour of our students is exemplary, and has been recognised by Ofsted as a strength. I am very proud of all our students who embody so many of the values that are at the heart of the ethos of Raynes Park High School.

ST PAUL'S PLAYERS

DYING ON THE STAGE

Murder and mayhem are afoot in the upcoming play by Chessington drama group St Paul's Players.

An Act of Murder is a comedy murder mystery, a play set within a play, where a group of am-dram actors discover a real-life killer in the midst of their latest production.

Adapted by the players' Amanda Williams, the show will be performed twice next month, raising money for Kingston-based mental health charity Mind.

Karen Fuggles, who plays femme fatal Wanda Hawthorne, says: "It's been good fun rehearsing.

"This is the first time we've really acted out a play as St Paul's Players.

"We usually do a lot of singing and dancing, but this is a proper play.

"It's stretching us, but we're enjoying it."

● An Act Of Murder, Hook and Southborough Parish Hall, Hook Road, Chessington; May 9-10, 8pm; £10 (concessions £8); call 020 8397 3515.

FAB FOUR: All things must pass, but for those who missed Kingsmeadowlive's Beatlemania and are crying, waiting, hoping for another will shout with joy next week. Tribute act the Ultimate Beatles will play some of the Scousers' best rock'n'roll, with tracks such as Hey Jude, Let It Be and Here Comes the Sun.

● Ultimate Beatles; Kingsmeadowlive, Cherry Red Records Stadium, Jack Goodchild Way; April 26, 9pm to 1am; £8, £5 advance; visit wimbledonheritage.co.uk.

ALL ABOARD: Jazz at the Boaters is bringing in some foreign talent for its month-end gig.

Vibe SHORTS

Austrian-born bassist and writer Stefan Redtenbacher and his six-piece funkstra will bring their signature mix of funk, soul and jazz to Kingston.

It has delighted audiences in steely Sheffield for weeks already, and now this joint production of a well-loved play is making its way down to Kingston, writes David Gazet.

Brian Friel's Translations, set in rural 19th century Ireland, is a story about love complicated by language.

Local farm-girl Máire is torn between the affections of a local man and a British soldier, as the British Army arrives to their quiet village in Donegal to translate Gaelic place names into the King's English.

Niall Buggy, who plays Hugh, an alcoholic linguist and school master, says: "What the British are trying to do is change the place names, to change them to English names.

"I think that one of the things about place names is that it has this problem with respect. It's asking for trouble."

The play, completed in 1980, has since been performed around the world, from its initial run in Ireland, to New York and Minsk.

Buggy adds: "I would have to say it is one of the greatest plays ever written.

"I feel privileged as an actor. It is great to be working with these young actors and wonderful young director James Grieve. He just lets this play speak for itself. "There are some fantastic actors in this production. These are people I learn from.

"This is my second time doing this play. It has been seven years since I performed at Broadway. It was a joy to do. It was particularly wonderful for me to do again in England. "Friel has in this play created some extraordinary theatrical coup d'états."

Though the play's tension is created as a result of the British campaign, love and language are the main focus.

Yolland, Máire's British suitor, cannot speak her language.

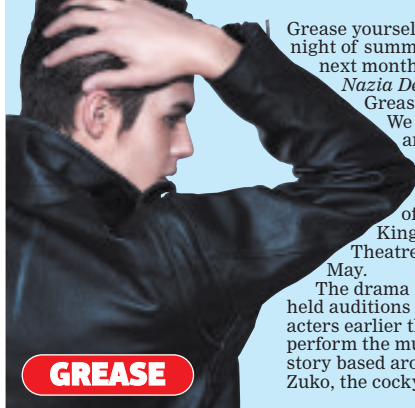

Buggy says: "That love is one of the greatest love scenes ever written.

"The language of love is also the language of living. It is a play about love, not about politics."

It is one of the greatest plays ever written

Language of LOVE

THOSE SUMMER NIGHTS

GREASE

Grease yourself up for a night of summer lovin' next month, writes Nazia Dewji.

Grease Lightning, We Go Together and Summer Love will be belted out in the latest offering by Kingston Vale Theatre Group in May.

The drama group that held auditions for the characters earlier this year will perform the much-loved story based around Danny Zuko, the cocky leader of the Burger Palace Boys, and sweet-natured Aussie girl Sandy, who fall in love within the confines of the fictional Rydell High School.

Directors Lizzie Lattimore and Sarah Dowd, promise a lively and colourful show with plenty of singing, dancing, and 1950s-esque props.

Dowd says: "We are incredibly excited about Grease, and bringing a bit of the 1950s. We have found and added so many props that people have donated that it really will take everyone back to those days when Brylcreem and pop socks were the 'in' thing."

Choreographer Sophie Hardie has been teaching 1950s dance moves to the cast.

She says: "The cast have really had to get fit for this show. There's a lot of movement, especially the jive, but it's been fantastic seeing everyone learning the different dances to this wonderful music."

Ouch...

...Double ouch...

...But the piercing's worth it in the end for Anthea Brown

WHAT A STUD!

Aside from the slight discomfort, piercing can be a great means of expression or an aesthetic choice depending on who you are, writes Waithera Junghae.

There are different reasons why people get parts of their body pierced. The celebrity culture in which we live plays a role.

DAINIS ZEITMATS

Beyonce's belly button ring or Rihanna's chest piercing are things that seem to motivate people to go forward and make the decision to get a piercing.

Jay Sea, from Stigma Studio in Sutton, says celebrity piercings can be an influence on what people have done, but this is not incredibly common as a lot of popular celebrities do not have piercings.

She says: "I think it should be passion not fashion simply because it takes quite a lot of dedication to get a piercing as you have to look after it. Very often people see the piercings their friends have and want the same one but of course people's body

WHERE TO GO: Old London Road Tattoos has a growing reputation. Specialising in body art, the parlour also has piercings covered, including dermal anchors and corsetry. Old London Road Tattoos, 37 Old London Road, Kingston KT2 6ND. shape is different."

Piercing allows people to express themselves, and we have been doing that since civilisation began according to Sea.

"People get piercing because of individuality," she says. "It is not just ear piercing – there is a menu of 100 different piercings."

Dainis Zeitmats, head piercer at the London Piercing Clinic in Croydon in his seven years of experience found that "people get piercing for various reasons, sometimes to mark an event in their lives and sometimes to modify their bodies".

And this has to be true, especially when we note people who get piercings can range from little girls to a guy in a rock band.

MAIREARAD GREEN & ANNA MASSIE

Two award-winning Scottish multi-instrumentalists will travel south to perform in Thames Ditton for the first time.

Mairearad Green, on accordion and small pipes, and guitarist, banjo and fiddle player Anna Massie will make their Ram Club debut on Friday, April 25.

The Glasgow-based duo, who can count KT Tunstall among their many fans, have received critical acclaim for their two albums, 2009's debut Mairearad and Anna, and 2013's Doubling.

Having grown up in the Scottish Highlands, the pair share an innate understanding of Scottish culture and music.

The pair have played together for 10 years, both as a duo and also in Celtic big band the Unusual Suspects.

Separately, they have appeared with the Poozies, Blazin' Fiddles, Bella Hardy and Box Club.

Mayor's new plan for house building

The Mayor of London, Boris Johnson, has launched proposals for a new investment scheme designed to accelerate house building and help deliver thousands more low cost homes.

The London Housing Bank scheme would loan up to £200m to development partners to help them speed up the building of around 3,000 homes on large scale multi-phase schemes, which already have planning consent. These homes would then be let to Londoners at low cost rent, below the market rate, for a 10 year period before being sold on, with the loan repaid to City Hall.

Research conducted by City Hall suggests that planning consents have been granted for around 200,000 homes in London which have not yet been built, a figure that is sometimes confused with developers land banking sites. However around three quarters of these consents are on large, multi-stage regeneration developments of more than 500 homes which can take many years to complete. Often this is due to the funding and sales constraints which can limit the pace of building.

Through the proposed London Housing Bank, the mayor would help to fast track these developments, completing them several years earlier than traditional house building methods allow.

The mayor is consulting organisations within the housing industry on the proposals. The closing date for responses is May 21.

Cash buyers fuel house boom

Cash buyers and first time buyers (FTBs) are more active than any other buyer groups and are driving growth in both housing market transactions and prices.

That's according to new research from Hamptons International which says that during 2013 the number of cash buyers grew by a third while data from the CML shows the number of FTBs with a mortgage grew by almost a quarter.

In 2013, 350,000 properties were purchased with cash, equating to 36 per cent of the market in England and Wales, the highest number since 2007. Meanwhile, 28 per cent of the market was accounted for by FTBs with mortgages.

Johnny Morris, head of research at Hamptons International, said: "Cash buyers have been at the vanguard of the housing market recovery in recent months, with the number of cash buyers increasing at a faster rate than those purchasing with a mortgage.

"This comes at a time when the number of properties available to buy is five per cent lower than this time last year (in London this figure rises to 20 per cent)."

Hamptons International says its research highlights how the increased activity of cash and first time buyers is an important factor to the shortage of housing stock.

Mr Morris added: "The increase in numbers of first time and cash buyers without a property to sell has meant fewer homes coming to the market. Low levels of stock have been a factor driving rapid price increases, particularly in the south of England.

"Until we see more owners moving home, who have properties to sell as well as buy, the shortage of homes for sale is likely to continue. The result being that 2014 looks to remain, resolutely a sellers' market."

Hamptons International's research shows 70 per cent of cash buyers in 2013 weren't selling a property to fund their purchase at the point of sale.

Some cash buyers, such as downsizers bought and sold a house at the same time, which meant there was no increase in the stock of property for sale.

Others, such as second home buyers or buy-to-let investors, snap up available stock for sale, without adding to it, at least in the short term.

Conditions of acceptance of advertisements

General

1. The following conditions apply to the placing of an order for insertion of advertisements in Newsquest Media Group ("Newsquest") printed or electronic publications. Each order will form a separate agreement and English law will apply. Any change to these conditions must be agreed by us in writing (which means by exchange of letter, fax or email). An "advertiser" means any person or organisation placing an advertisement on their own account or on behalf of another.

Contents

2. The advertiser confirms that the advertisement complies with all applicable legislation, regulations and codes of practice, including the codes supervised by the Advertising Standards Authority. We may reject or require changes to any advertisement so as to comply with legal or moral obligations placed on us or the advertiser; to avoid infringing the rights of a third party or any relevant code of practice; or to meet our published production and quality specifications.

3. The advertiser further confirms that:

- i) the publication of the advertisement will not breach any contract, infringe the copyright, trademark or other right of any third party and is not libelous of any person;
- ii) all licences and consents from third parties necessary for the publication of the advertisement have been obtained and paid for, including consent from living persons identified in copy or pictures (photographic or otherwise);
- iii) in respect of an investment advertisement, the contents have been approved by, or the advertiser is, and authorised person within the meaning of the Financial Services Act 1986 as amended or the advertisement is otherwise permitted under that Act.

Payment

4. All advertisements must be paid for in full at the time of booking unless credit has been agreed. The price shall be the amount fixed by our published rate card on the date of acceptance of the order plus VAT where applicable. For non-credit advertisers, we will cancel publication of an advertisement that has not been paid for on time. For credit advertisers, we will cancel publication of any future advertisements if payment is not made in accordance with our payment terms. For credit advertisers, interest will be charged on late payments at the rate of 3% above the Bank of England's base lending rate from the date payment is due together with the administration costs of collecting an overdue debt.
5. By placing an order with us, an advertising agency confirms that it contracts as principal with full authority from its client in all matters connected with the order and is responsible for all payments due. We will only accept advertisements from advertising agencies if they are recognised by us.
6. We will try to give notice of increases, but we reserve the right to change our advertising rates at any time. This will not affect contracts, including any fixed term agreement for a series of advertisements.

Box numbers

7. We will use reasonable efforts to forward replies to box numbers within a reasonable time, but we are not responsible for any failure or delay caused by circumstances beyond our reasonable control, or for any losses relating to an advertiser's business or any loss that is not reasonably foreseeable by both parties.

Cancellation

8. We will notify the advertiser of the latest time that orders can be cancelled (the "booking" deadline) and the latest time that advertising copy can be received by us ("the copy deadline"). An advertiser may cancel up until copy deadline and we will make reasonable efforts to re-sell the space, but the advertiser will be liable for the full price if the space is not sold and we will reclaim any unearned volume-based discount. Private advertisers booking by telephone or online may cancel in accordance with relevant law, but no refund shall be available after the copy deadline unless cancellation is due to our negligence. If the copy is not received by the copy deadline, we will not be liable if the advertisement does not appear, but the advertiser will remain liable to make full payment for the price of the advertisement.
9. We will try to satisfy an advertiser's request regarding the positioning of an advertisement, but no guarantee of position can be given unless agreed by us and paid for at the rate then current.

Errors

10. We are not liable for any error, misprint or non-appearance of an advertisement unless caused by our negligence, in which case the advertiser will be entitled to a re-insertion or proportionate refund. The advertiser is solely responsible for checking the advertisement on each insertion and ordering correction where necessary. Except where we have been negligent, we shall not be liable for an error or misprint that, in our reasonable opinion, does not materially detract from the advertisement. We shall not be liable in any case for losses relating to any business or public fund-raising for the advertiser, such as lost customers, revenue or profit.

Copyright

11. Advertisements are accepted on condition that we have the right to publish them online as well as in any booked titles. The copyright in work or material we contribute to or re-work for an advertisement belongs to us. We will dispose of advertiser's copy, artwork, photographs or other materials after six months unless collected.

General

12. We shall not be liable if our publishing activities are restricted or prevented by any law, act or event beyond our reasonable control (including, for example, industrial dispute). In such case, the advertiser shall accept publication when available or otherwise may cancel the order by written notice and pay only for work done and materials used.
13. We will use the advertiser's details for internal administration. Unless the advertiser tells us not to in writing at any time, we may also share details with other Newsquest companies or with carefully selected third parties, who may send information about goods and services.
14. The advertiser will be liable to pay us for all costs, losses, expenses and damages of any kind suffered or incurred by us as a result of legal claims or actions, actual or threatened, arising from the advertiser's breach of these conditions or the publications of the advertisement, unless caused by our own negligent act or failure.
15. We may cancel the order at any time if the advertiser breaches these conditions and the breach is not capable of remedy or it continues for seven days after we have given written notice of it, or if we reasonably believe the advertiser is unable to pay debts or the advertiser goes or threatens to go out of business.

Casuals complete great league escape

Corinthian Casuals boss Matt Howard wants his men to finish the season in style after completing the great escape on Saturday.

An own goal and one from leading scorer Jamie Byatt gave Howard's men a 2-0 win over champions Peace-haven & Telscombe to secure Ryman Division One South safety and, after Monday's 3-0 defeat to Burgess Hill Town, Howard, right, wants a big finish when Redhill visit on Saturday.

"We can beat the club's points total record and that is the target," he said.

Ready or not: Peter Cardona is hoping to shrug off a calf injury to land a European weightlifting medal

SU53808

Euro shot excites Cardona

Weightlifter Peter Cardona will be carrying a heavy burden into Europe beyond the cold steel of his profession, writes Tim Ashton.

Last month, the 50-year-old from Worcester Park won the men's 50-55-year-old British Masters weightlifting title in the 69kg class.

Now he is heading to Hungary in May for a shot at the European title, with an eye on the world crown later this year.

Cardona, who only took up the sport in 2008, believes top spot in the Euros is within his grasp, but a niggling calf injury means he is still short of peak fitness.

"It has taken me about 12 weeks to recover from the injury and get back to building up my weights," he said.

"At the British Masters, I totalled 157kg – 72kg in the snatch and 85kg in the clean and jerk. I would normally lift 100kg in the clean and jerk, and I need to be around there for the Euros.

"My son has worked out a training schedule, which is working so well that I have already achieved the qualification weights for the worlds.

"Before that is the Euros, and this is my first shot at it so it is exciting. I know if I can add a few more kilos in training I could even get first."

Cardona's son Louis added: "We're organising training to peak for the Euros. Based on last year's results, he'll be able to win or at least place in the top three."

DOUBLE CHANCE: Surbiton out to add cup glory to title triumph

Let's have a perfect year

SPORTS EDITOR
STUART AMOS

samos@
london.newsquest.co.uk

After a perfect weekend, Surbiton Ladies captain Sarah Haycroft is now out to wrap up a perfect season.

The 23-year-old England international led her side to the Women's Hockey League Premier Division Championship title in Reading last Sunday.

Haycroft celebrated her birthday with a 4-1 semi-final win over the host club on Saturday, before goals from Emily Atkinson, Hollie Webb and Jenna Woolven secured a 3-0 final triumph over Canterbury 24 hours later.

It meant Surbiton qualified for next season's EuroHockey League.

The Sugden Road outfit take on South Division One Hampstead & Westminster in Saturday's Women's Cup final and the England international has a thirst for more silverware.

"It was a perfect weekend really," said Haycroft, below.

"We have the cup final now so it would be great to make it a perfect season.

"It is amazing to think this is only the team's second year at this level. It shows you how far we have come.

"It has been a whole squad effort and not just the 18 players that played in the finals."

Surbiton suffered the agony of a shoot-out defeat to Leicester at the semi-final stage 12 months ago, and Haycroft admitted that experience had played its part in this season's success.

"It was very close last year, but we had that experience this year to go on and win it," said the skipper.

"The Reading win flattered us a bit because it was a very close game.

Dream day: Surbiton's Sarah Page, centre, congratulates Becky Herbert after she scored the second goal in Saturday's 4-1 semi-final triumph over Reading

Pictures: Ady Kerry

"We had beaten Canterbury earlier in the season but all we talked about before the game was that finals are never easy.

"But we worked hard as a team and that got us through."

Surbiton will follow their male counterparts, last 16 losers to Oranje Zwart in Eindhoven last Thursday into Europe next season and could be dark horses for the title.

"There will be no expectations on us, which might mean we'll be more relaxed," added Haycroft.

"We'll take each game as it comes and hope to spring a few surprises."

Haycroft hails key pair in title triumph

Surbiton skipper Sarah Haycroft was quick to hail the club's title triumph as a team effort, but admitted two players had made telling contributions.

Fellow England international Hollie Webb scored her side's second goal in the 3-0 final win over Canterbury, but it was her defensive effort in the semi-final win over Reading that caught the eye.

"When they asked her to be in a photograph of the final goalscorers, it was a surprise for her. She doesn't usually score," said Haycroft.

"She has been brilliant for us all season. Her tackling is probably the best in the league and she marked England international Alex Danson out of the semi-final."

Meanwhile, Sarah Page was crowned player of the play-offs and Haycroft could see why.

"Sarah is so threatening going forward and just kept winning us the ball in the middle," she said.

"It was a whole team effort though. The way we kept defending and defending was brilliant."

Surbiton have been shorn of their star names at times this term but the depth of head coach Brett Garrard's squad has coped.

"We will always have a turnover of players because of the size of the club," added Haycroft.

"The young players who have come in have plugged the gaps and performed well."

Moss humbled by show of affection at Ks

Kingstonian striker Ryan Moss collected all three main end of season awards this week, before warning his work was far from complete, writes Stuart Amos.

The former AFC Bournemouth trainee was named the supporters' players' and manager's player of the year on Monday to cap a profitable Easter weekend.

The 26-year-old's double took his season's goal tally to 26 in Monday's 5-1 triumph over relegated Carshalton Athletic that guaranteed the club a Ryman Premier League top five finish.

A final day win at Dulwich Hamlet would go a long way to landing a home play-off semi-final tie and possible home advantage in any prospective final.

Ks, who beat champions Wealdstone 4-0 on Saturday, are in the midst of a 13 game unbeaten run.

And Moss, pictured left with captain Sam Page, reckons that form means they will be the team to beat in the promo-

"I was really humbled to get all three awards," he said. "It is a nice achievement, but the job is not done yet."

"We want a home draw in the play-offs. History says form teams tend to win the play-offs. Ourselves and Bognor Regis Town are up there. It is looking good so far, but there is still work to do."

TRYING TIMES: Worcester Park's Howard Fuller suffered a scare as he was taken to hospital following a crash on his VW Cup debut with Team Hard at Oulton Park on Saturday. The 21-year-old's Volkswagen Golf was involved in a start-line pile up in the first of two rounds and was treated as a precaution before being discharged with little more than a sore neck. New Malden's Tom Onslow-Cole, pictured in action above right, got his British GT Championship campaign off to a slow start at the same venue as he and team-mate Paul White finished 16th in each of their two series races at the Cheshire track.

WAITING GAME: Surbiton's EuroHockey League qualification hopes hang in the balance after a last-16 3-1 defeat to Oranje Zwart on Thursday. Subsequent defeats at the same stage for fellow English teams Beeston and East Grinstead means the Sugden Road outfit must wait on the overall country rankings from this year's competition to determine the number of Men's Hockey League Premier Division teams permitted to take part. Three currently qualify but that number could be cut to two by tournament officials next week.

LOSING START: Athletes James Robertson (2,00m steeplechase), Mathew Broderick (high jump), Humphry Waddington (triple jump), Mae Thompson (400m hurdles) and Pippa Wingate (shot & discus) each won their respective events, but could not prevent Kingston AC & Polytechnic Harriers' men and women from finishing last in their opening Southern League Division Two South meeting of the summer on Saturday. The club host their annual Kinnaird & Swann Trophy meeting at Kingsmeadow on Saturday.

CENTURY UP: Malden Wanderers' number three batsman Pete Young smashed 105 to help his side win their opening match of the cricket season on Saturday. Skipper Giles Puckle's men reached 218-5 before dismissing visitors Oxted & Limsfield for 139, with Young again in the thick of the action with two wickets. Wanderers travel to High Wycombe in the opening round of the national knockout cup on Sunday.

TRIALS: Motspur Park FC are holding trials for their newly established U16s team on April 26 at Sir Joseph Hood Memorial Park, Marina Avenue. Sessions start from 2pm.
